THE WORKINGMEN'S CHAMPION.

FROM NEAR THE FATHER OF WATERS.

Thornburgh-Garrett-Caldwell.

From our special correspondent.

LAFAYETTE, TENN., Oct. 16, 1872.

In company with the Congressional candidates, Messrs. Thornburgh, Caldwell, and Garrett, I left Carthage yesterday morning and arrived here in the afternoon. To-day they held a joint discussion to a rather small audience, not more than twenty-five persons. Republicans had not generally understood that Colonel Thornburgh was a candidate, and thought the fight was between two Democrats. With this view of the case they did not propose to take much stock—consequently very few of them were present. The discussion was opened by Col. Garrett, who made new points, but reiterated his charges against the unfairness of the late Sparta Convention.

Col. Williams' letter to show that Caldwell had obtained his nomination through fraud, trickery and conspiracy. The substance of the letter is, that Col. W. claims that 21 delegates from one of the counties, Anderson perhaps, were instructed for him. Caldwell came to him and asked if he would allow him to take these 21 votes and experiment with them, promising that in case a certain contingency arose, that he would withdraw and put him (Williams) in nomination. He states that Caldwell seemed very anxious to experiment upon his capital, but that he failed to keep his promise.

Caldwell followed in a speech of 45 minutes, saying nothing he had not said before, except that he would remove the tariff from pig iron.

Thornburgh closed in a forcible, vigorous speech of the same length which could not fail to carry conviction to the minds of his hearers. Here as elsewhere, we heard men say, who do not intend to vote for him, that he is too hard for his opponents on the stump. He drives right to the point, making himself felt in every chest. Macon county, from where I write, has a very large Republican element. Col. Thornburgh's friends claim that he will carry the county. Democrats claim that they will carry it by two hundred votes. It is certainly very close, and with the fine impression made by his speech to-day, there is a fair probability of Thornburgh carrying it by a small majority. To-morrow we go again to Smith county from where I will write.

THE TRIO AT GAINESBOROUGH.

GAINESBOROUGH, TENN., Oct. 11, '72. EDITORS CHRONICLE: To-day the three candidates for Congress, Col. A. Caldwell, Col. A. E. Garrett and Col. A. Thornburgh, addressed a large and respectable audience at this place. The discussion was opened by Col. Garrett, then followed Col. Caldwell, who made a lasting impression on a great number of the people; by the manly and dignified manner in which he conducted the debate.

Before the discussion, the people of this community were much divided upon the two opponents; but since the little giant (as the people call him) made his speech, I have observed a decided change. He met the combined vituperation and slander of his two competitors, with a zeal and determination that done honor to him as a man and to the cause he espouses. He deeply impressed the people that he was their friend, and that he would endeavor to promote the interest of the working man. He was listened to with marked attention, and was often forced to stop till the cheering and sensation he produced in the audience would die away. Every charge brought against him and the administration was met with promptness, and was successfully refuted. He reminds me of a story that I have somewhere read, of Hercules—that when he was attacked by two huge serpents, while in his cradle, he rose in the might and power of his strength and vanquished them both. Just so with Col. Thornburgh. He agrees to surprise many of the citizens of this place, by the ability he displayed, and the manner in which he disposed of his opponents. He handled them without gloves, while every word and sentence of his address had a telling effect. Many, without regard to politics or party affiliations, are his profound friends. He is regarded as a pure, good man; combining in himself all those qualities that characterize the patriot and philanthropist. His highest ambition is the good of his country and the welfare of mankind. After speaking 45 minutes, the time agreed upon by his opponents, without a reply, he sat down amidst great applause.

THE EASTERN DIVISION FAIR.

Examination in the Stock Department Concluded.

The Crowd in Attendance from 10,000 to 12,000.

The Programme for To-day, &c., &c., &c.

FIFTH DAY.

On yesterday the weather was as propitious as on preceding days, and from day light till noon the people poured into the city from every direction and the road to the Fair grounds was canopied with a cloud of dust, caused by the steady stream of humanity whose destination was the fair grounds, until there seemed no end to the rushing thousands.

The crowd in attendance was the largest ever assembled on any previous occasion in this section for a similar purpose, and numbered from ten to twelve thousand. The building was densely crowded from nine o'clock till late in the afternoon, so that it was with difficulty one could pass up or down stairs.

Between ten and eleven o'clock the Knights of Pythias—some seventy strong, dressed in their showy uniforms, well mounted, and preceded by the German Band, in a wagon beautifully decorated with the colors of the Order—arrived and proceeded to the tilting grounds, where, after going through several evolutions, showing their proficiency in drill, the marshal announced the opening of the lists for the jousts, which soon commenced. The Knights presented a very soldierly appearance and made the handsomest show of any civic procession in this city since the war.

The college cadets, Lieut. T. T. Thornburgh, of the regular army, commanding, also visited the grounds. The remainder of the stock was examined and many of the articles, but the entries were so numerous that the labors of the committees are not yet concluded, and they will have to wait until this morning before they are completed.

SPEED RING.

In the three mile dash for all ages, there were three entries for the citizens' purse, additional to the Society premium.

G. M. Branner enters s. m. J. A. Mabry enters s. s. "Eland." Robt Wood enters g. g. The race was won by "Eland." Time: 1st mile, 1:48; 2 miles, 3:40; 3 miles, 5:20.

In this connection a brief allusion to the pedigree of the victorious horse will be of interest. Eland was sired by Jack Malone, he by Lexington; dam Gazette by imported Albion. He is a light sorrel and splendidly formed, showing the pure blood from which he sprang.

In the race for untrained saddle horses, one mile, for the Society purse of $20, there were ten entries which was won by a bay, entered by G. H. Luttrell. Time, 1:59.

The trotting race, 2 mile dash, all ages, for the Society purse of $50 was third. Entries: A. B. Melindy, enters "Dandy Jack." J. M. Dickinson, enters g. m. Kate Dickinson.

The first mile was won by "Dandy Jack." Time, 3:10; second won by the grey, Time, 3:20. The latter was declared the winner of the race in 6:20. The half of the shoe of "Dandy Jack's" right fore foot broke off on the first quarter of the first mile and it was very evident the horse was not trotting his best gait. His owner says he beat the grey very easily on Thursday in the mile race and feels entirely certain he could easily beat him again in either a one or two mile trot.

For the single footing race, dash of 1 mile, there were six entries. Premium $25.

J. W. Montgomery, Wm Duff, T. J. Burnett, W. S. Bradley, Andrew Knott, Rush Montgomery. The race was won by Andrew Knott. Time, 3:15.

MINERALS.

In this department, which is provided over by Chas. Seymour, Esq., we noticed the "blue ribbon" scattered around, showing that our resources are being gradually developed.

John Hasson, of Choptank, representing the Cave Quarry, of Hawkins county, shows a beautiful square block of variegated marble, weighed nearly a thousand pounds, polished on all sides. This attracted great attention and was universally admired. An examination of this stone with a magnifying glass shows some curious formations, among which is an Indian arrow as perfectly delineated as though by a master artist in mosaic work; a lady's slipper, the head of a fox, and miniature animals, which are worthy of observation. He also exhibits specimens not polished, which are equally admired. Among the rough stone we noticed one in which a tooth was imbedded, with the enamel yet visible and in a state of perfect preservation. The quarry from which this marble is taken is situated in a cave which extends half a mile under the ground on Mr. Hasson's farm, and is situated four miles and a half from Rogersville. The largest block of marble ever quarried in East Tennessee was from the one above mentioned, and weighed 16,000 pounds. It was shipped to a Baltimore dealer. The marble is different tints, from light, flesh colored to a darker hue, but all variegated. The specimens are very fine, and we learn it is the intention of Mr. H. to ship them to Memphis to-night.

Dr. Jarnigan, of Mossy Creek, shows forty-eight varieties, all of his own collection and most of them from near the line of the E. T. Va. and Ga Railroad in Jefferson county. Dr. J. has pure white of fine grain and clear polish and a hard fine grained black like the Egyptian, and his collection includes many of the most beautiful of the red and variegated marbles.

Parry and Nideker show some fine large slates, neatly framed, from Jefferson county. James Wright, Esq., also of Hawkins county, shows handsome specimens of the Dougherty marble, variegated variety. Among them are two tables, one of which look the first premium, which are very deep colored and rich in appearance and for this class of work is specially adapted. Besides these one smaller specimen of lighter shades, all susceptible of the finest polish. Mr. Wright shows also the rough stone, together with several specimens of stalactites.

Mr. J. B. Johnson, of the Knoxville Iron Company, exhibits a show case containing 45 varieties of iron ore from 33 places, 6 of gold quartz, 6 of zinc, 8 of lead, 12 of copper, 2 of slate, 8 of marble, and a large assortment of fire clays, sulphurets, crystals, etc. This collection has in all, several hundred specimens and is beautifully arranged and displayed. All are from East Tennessee.

Chas. W. Bradley, Esq., of Jonesboro, sends a fine case of ores, slag, charcoal, furnace heart stone, furnace lining, limestone and the different grades of iron from the Embreeville Works in Washington county. Heap & Clapp, of North Carolina, send a very handsome display of mica in blocks and in thin sheets.

There are many articles not classified that are worthy of premiums, on exhibition, but with great liberality the Board of Directors have prepared for this contingency and promised an examination and award to all such.

In this class is the brick cleaning machine of Mr. T. M. Schleier, which has been tested sufficiently to know that it will clean 25,000 per day, easily. This is his own invention and residing here in our midst we hope that the genius of our own people will meet the reward.

MISCELLANEOUS.

In agricultural implements we observed the blue ribbon attached to the patent reversible hillside plow exhibited by Jacob Rupe and James Moore. The plowing match is set for to-day.

There was quite a show of native wine, and several counties contended for the palm. Jos. R. Dew, of Campbell, took the first for still Catawba; this wine was made at his vineyard near Jacksboro', by Mr. Edward Brown, Sr., a German vine-grower of many years' experience and who thoroughly understands grape culture.

W. R. Reeves, Esq., of Washington county, was awarded the premium for grape wine and cider.

Mrs. John Blevins, of Hawkins county, took the blue ribbon for rice, slates, blankets, linsey, carpet, table cloth, domestic, cotton cloth, woolen counterpanes.

Among the citizens of Knoxville exhibited the first premium for articles on award. We noticed Messrs. Eldridge & Hawley, for buggies, phaeton and spring wagons. Mr. Schleier swept the field in his department, receiving the blue ribbon for the best and largest photograph, oil painting from nature, best view of the fair grounds, best and largest collection, also for best single chromo as well as largest display.

Mr. Wm H. Huddle received the first premium for best portrait of a lady in oil. Lloyd Branson, for the best portrait of a gentleman in oil.

Mrs. Chas. Waring, for the best water color drawing.

A. C. Bruce, for best architectural designs. James Maloy, for best collection of millinery goods.

Gaines, Bro. & Co., for best gent's boots and shoes and ladies' gaiters. R. H. Edington, for best brogans. B. L. Brier, of Fentress county for swarm of Illinois bees and hive.

A NEW FEATURE.

Yesterday morning one of our press was sent out and placed on the second floor and hundreds of circulars worked off. This was a new feature to many who witnessed the working of a printing press for the first time.

DINNER.

The run on John Scherf's dining hall was very great, and though he had an extra force of cooks and waiters, yet, so great was the crowd that he could not accommodate them all. He has laid in a fresh supply of substantial and luxuries and will be ready for all to-day.

THE AWARD OF PREMIUMS.

will take place at ten o'clock, and at half-past ten an auction will take place on the grounds for the benefit of exhibitors who wish to dispose of their articles. At three o'clock, p. m., the prize drawing will take place.

This will be in many respects the most interesting day of the Fair, and aside from what is stated above there are several races to be run.

Take Notice.

Experience has demonstrated to me that a cash business is the only safe business. Acting upon this I have determined, that on and after the fifteenth of October, I shall sell goods only for cash. In the meantime, those who are indebted to me are requested to make payment. To do business I must have money. I imperative necessity demands it. My capital is to a great extent in the hands of my customers and I must have it. Those in arrears will take due notice thereof and govern themselves accordingly. To my customers I extend sincere thanks for past patronage, and solicit a continuance of the same under the cash system, promising to sell goods much cheaper than can be done on credit. My books show accounts due me of about three thousand dollars and I must collect it.
